Program

AUDIENCE: K-12 TEACHERS, ADMINISTRATORS AND SUPPORT STAFF ARE ENCOURAGED TO ATTEND.

This full day session will deconstruct what inclusive education means in today's classrooms and communities. We will also discuss common misunderstandings and myths. Participants will leave with extensive ideas and possibilities of creating inclusive learning communities. Together, we will look at how planning can be responsive to the needs of a group of learners with a variety of abilities. We will discuss examples and strategies of how all students can achieve success through strategic planning of goals and designing of supports.

This learning opportunity is being offered on a cost recovery basis.

Presenters

Shelley Moore

Originally from Edmonton, and now based in Vancouver, British Columbia, Shelley Moore is a highly sought after teacher, researcher, speaker and storyteller and has worked with school districts and community organizations throughout both Canada and the United States. Shelley's presentations are constructed based on contexts of schools and communities and integrate theory and effective practices of inclusion, special education, curriculum and teacher professional development. Her first book entitled, "One Without the Other" was released in July 2016 to follow up her TEDx talk hosted in Langley in January 2016. Shelley completed an undergraduate degree in Special Education at the University of Alberta, her Masters at Simon Fraser University, and is currently a PhD candidate at the University of British Columbia.
